

Risk Communication as an Effective Tool in Training

---

Bob Immele

Beryllium Affected/Worker/instructor
HAMMER, Hanford Site, Washington

Pacific Northwest National Laboratory
Hanford Site, Washington

Risk Communication as an Effective Tool in Training

---

Advantages of Worker/Instructor

- Worked in field for years
  - Accepted by peers
  - Ambassador to the workplace
-

Advantages of Beryllium Affected Worker/Instructor

---

- Able to share first-hand experiences
  - Accepted as a credible source
  - Develop two-way communications
  - Desire to prevent others from developing CBD
  - Positive feed back from students
-